

CBA, Inc. Expanding Project Management Portfolio with Safran Partnership

Perrysburg, OH -- (February 1, 2011) – Critical Business Analysis, Inc., an Oracle Platinum Partner and industry leader for over 26 years in Project Management Software, Training and Professional services; announced today their partnership with Safran North America as a Safran Authorized Reseller (SAR). By expanding its Project Management Software Portfolio, CBA is furthering its reach and ability to help more companies eliminate project failure and is pleased to offer Safran to Microsoft Project customers for a more complete and robust solution.

“After years of leading our customers to project management excellence with Oracle Primavera solutions, this is a great opportunity for us to offer expanded core functionality of P6 to those clients. Safran helps us do just that by adding industry leading earned value capabilities and specific functionality for our utility, oil and gas customers.” Patrick Serafino, CBA, Inc. Vice President of Operations said.

“Safran is very excited about its new relationship with CBA. We feel that combined with CBA’s unique project management expertise that Safran will bring to Oracle Primavera users a set of market-tested solutions that positively affect their bottom lines through direct labor savings and overhead while improving project management effectiveness, information integrity and quality,” said Nicholas Pisano, CEO of Safran North America.

“The capability of Safran products—especially Safran Project and Proteus—to extend the functionality of Oracle Primavera products in the areas of earned value management and project information integration and distribution provide a significant value proposition to their customers,” added Matt Pitstick, CTO of Safran North America. “When combined with CBA’s extensive experience in the area of organizational effectiveness and systems improvement our customers will have a one-stop capability for tools and expertise committed to project management excellence.”
